They're on their way.Seasonal variation in the reproductive performance of cattle: effect of photoperiod and age. The influence of photoperiod and age of the animal on the reproductive performance of crossbred cattle was investigated. The females were either diestrous at the time of breeding or cycling on days -16 and -19, and -16 and -10 before the start of breeding. The males were first bred with the first group of females on day -10, and second on day -19. Cows that were treated with progesterone on day -19 and day -16 showed higher conception rate and a higher number of transferred embryos than did cows treated with progesterone only on day -19. Animals that were treated on days -10 and -16 conceived as many embryos as those that were treated on days -19 and -16. Plasma progesterone concentration was lower during the first mating than during the second mating. It was concluded that the control of reproduction of cows after first mating is better, and subsequently, fewer transferred embryos were produced.Q: How to add select field to the collection form in codeigniter 3.0 I have created a form to create new item in my project. it have some fields in it.
