This particular fool is indeed a celebrity in its own right, with the title of "Apiata of South Africa" being a testament to the fact that words are not his strong point, as he is too busy trying to show off his movie star tan to the world. As the title hints, the cap is a bronze that was purchased from a local "willy-willy" shop for approximately $3.50. There was no telling what it would become when it came to our humble studio, but once I saw it in person, I knew that it's destiny was indeed to become a star of the audiovisual arts. When fitting the head into the stadium cap, the cap itself actually secured the head to the cap quite well, so it's a cap that is truly a one-piece wonder. Its actually quite an easy cap to paint. The bases are glossy chrome and an

Field of the Invention This invention relates generally to rate converters and, more particularly, to a digital to analog (D/A) converter for asynchronous high speed transmission systems. 2. Description of the Prior Art The D/A converter can also be used as a D/A converter for a parallel type regenerative repeater. The parallel type regenerative repeater comprises a sub carrier regenerative repeater and a parallel/serial converter. In the regenerative repeater, the sub carrier regenerative repeater operates in an asynchronous manner and applies, to the regenerative repeater, the same waveform as the pulse train applied to the parallel/serial converter. The parallel/serial converter can be used independently without applying the inverse waveform to a regenerative repeater. In a D/A converter for the parallel type regenerative repeater, it is necessary to divide an input signal at a high speed in the transmitter and multiplex the divided signals at a high speed in the receiver. In this case, the system must provide a regeneration input waveform in the receiver. 300 N.W.2d 774 (1981) STATE of Iowa, Appellee, v. Larry Wayne BOLLING, Appellant, No. 63523.
