Thanks for sharing this great program! I have created a comparison table of SWBCapture vs WSnapshot. Click here for more details. WSnapshot is the flagship product from Altaro, Inc. It is by far the easiest, fastest, and most capable shot-capture tool to this day. It captures the entire desktop, even if partially covered by any other application. Your computer desktop is immediately transformed into a huge image file and you can take the screen shot directly to this file, or save it as any of many image formats including BMP, JPG, GIF, PNG and TIF. In other words, it is a "grabber" of all your screen shots, including the menu bar and title bar. You have only to mouse over the desktop and click/drag to capture the entire screen or even any window you select. You can also click at the top of the windows instead of dragging. As an added benefit, the program automatically closes any open application as soon as you exit the program. This is one of the few applications that can take the place of Task Manager. WSnapshot offers you a powerful options menu which enables you to view, tag, crop, re-size, rotate, and print the image, among many other features. You can transfer the image to any USB flash drive, or send an e-mail by clicking the right mouse button and selecting the Send To menu option. It is one of the few (if not the only) capture tools that can also capture audio from your microphone. If you like you can change the default format to BMP, GIF, JPEG, PNG, and TIF, as well as adjust quality, brightness, and contrast. WSnapshot is by far the easiest, fastest, and most capable shot-capture tool to this day. It captures the entire desktop, even if partially covered by any other application
