iDiary Crack Free Download [Mac/Win]

iDiary is the most sophisticated diary available today, it enables users to keep a private diary that is secure and simple to use. It does not require the use of any desktop management tools and does not access the internet, it also does not leave any type of record on the computer. It will track and save all your entries in a single location that you will be able to find at any time, it allows you to easily hide the entries you consider to be private and view your old entries in the calendar format. It is easy to use and runs completely independently of any other software, you can use it in any language. It is easy to download and the layout is clean and simple. It is designed for writers that want to be more organized and share their thoughts with anyone, it can be used in both a personal and a professional way. It features a powerful encryption tool that keeps your entries in a secure environment. iDiary combines the ideas of a personal diary and a status report. You can use it for keeping a private diary, or for generating your own news headlines. It can even create a personalized Twitter status for you or even create your own web page. You can monitor your daily activities and easily add them to your diary. All the diary methods are based on the following principle: Free the user from following a list of daily actions, prompt him to submit them when they are performed and sort them on the basis of their frequency, urgency or other criteria. You have already noticed that there is already a variety of such applications that you can download and try, but they have the following drawbacks: – they are not organized and create a burden for the user to stay organized in his diaries, – they are not set up to work online, – they require the user to be online during the recording of the diary. With the application that we introduce here, none of these drawbacks will apply to you. The program is not just a diary, it's also a blog, it's based on the principle of a simple blog engine. What is so unique about it? There are no lists, no lists, no lists. All the actions are recorded by you, they are written in your personal diary and you define when you want to record them. When you set up your diary, the actions are subdivided by category, so you will know that you have to choose the right category to record your actions, and that will be the only list you will
