tenure laws for New York City teachers are asking for help in circulating a petition to place the issue on the ballot. The argument for the change made by supporters of the current system is that “teachers represent our children the most” and that the current system is killing the best teachers in the city. The effort is being led by the United Federation of Teachers. Democrat State Sen. Jesse Hamilton (D-Brooklyn) came out to talk to several supporters who told him that they are in favor of the change. “I’m totally for it,” said Hamilton, who told NBC that he is recommending that the city give the contract to the teachers union. “All we want to do is to have input for our kids,” said carwash owner Jorge Vivas. He said he is also in favor of the new contract with the teachers union. “I’m for what the UFT has done,” said Vivas. “I work for them. They gave me the contract. They’re good.”

Many supporters of the change said that the new contract will save the city many dollars which will be needed for a difficult fiscal year. “I have been working for 40 years,” said teacher Helen Rivera. “The contract has caused us to lose work, to be late to work, to be late to pick kids up from school, to have to lose money.” The petition says that the current contract must be ended. It notes that the City Council and Mayor Bill de Blasio have refused to negotiate. “Because they have no choice,” the petition states. “The contract they have with UFT is illegal.” Supporters said they will be circulating the petition at meetings, at community boards, and door-to-door.

“I’ve called everybody at home,” said Hamilton. “I’m going to

This screensaver presents a round mechanical and digital clock in a rather unusual setting: in a dark room. The background of this screensaver is made dark, so that not much information can be recognized. The clock is moving slowly on the screen so that only a part of it is visible at the same time. As the time passes, it will continuously change between a mechanical and digital display. It can be moved to any position on the screen and can be limited to the smaller or larger area. For example, only a half of the clock can be seen on the screen. The clock is very sensitive to the changes of the time and will continuously show the current time in the center of the screen. From time to time, alarms will appear on the screensaver, for example every 20 seconds. You can set the alarm text in the configuration dialog. When the clock stops, you will receive an alarm sound!

NFS Clock11 Features:

- Round-shaped clock
- Moving clock
- Big or small clock movement
- Supports transparency in configuration
- Configurable alarm
- Taskbar icon
- Time set from the registry or the file system
- Analog clock

(43 downloads) by MIGUEL CAMPOS Rated 3 out of 5 by MAO75 only good for playing music I like this clock, but I have a problem with it: the configuration is very complicated. It is not easy to add, change and delete songs from the list, and it is very complicated to see what the songs are, because all are listed like a list. A: Look at the configuration below if you want to use NFS Clock to play music. Economy, Year End A year ago, the economy was supposed to roar again. Back in 2011, after financial crisis and recession and jobs receding since '08, few American economists and pundits thought the economy could possibly do worse. So they plumped for the usual litany of reasons why the economy was finally turning up, from labor market slack to housing to rising confidence. Now their favorite “why?” explanations have been thoroughly discredited. The job market has been deteriorating for six straight months. Consumer confidence has not recovered. And new-home sales are back in the cellar. But the U.S. economy still seems to be stuck in the doldrums. Why? One oft-repeated answer is that manufacturing is bad again, with both production and jobs contracted in three of the last four quarters. While manufacturing has indeed declined, the losses have been offset by other industries, particularly residential construction. Job losses in construction, though, do appear to be worsening, as our chart shows. Construction employment has declined for 20 consecutive months, and is now below levels before the recession. And the annual hiring rate of construction workers, which had been expected to recover in the second half of 2012, is still below normal. But the second big problem, according to a second explanation, is the European sovereign-deb
