Q: Refresh member registration list in CRM 2011 I'm developing an application using CRM 2011. In a public view of members in a Contacts entity, there are several fields that are editable/non-editable, we use a Toggle button, where we enable and disable the edit fields. The problem is that if I edit one of the "naked" editable fields, and click on "Save", the member updates his profile, but the view of the list doesn't refresh. And if I click on another row, the previous member is shown "dirty" in the editing view, and the view is NOT refreshed. How can I force the view of the members list to refresh? A: There is a method in CRM 2011 that allows to refresh the view of the Contact Members List. Also there is an extension that keeps the list up to date. I use this one: After you installed it you will just see this when you press F5 or Refresh on the URL: Hope it can help. ## What's New In Adobe Photoshop?

Positively charged bioadhesive cationic liposomes for gene delivery enhance therapeutic gene expression in skin tissue. Cationic liposomes are effective carriers for naked plasmid DNA, and are attracting more attention in the development of the gene therapy for diseases. However, their application of in vivo is still restricted by low transfection efficiency and by the safety concerns. Here, we developed positively charged bioadhesive cationic liposomes loaded with a reporter gene, to be applied for gene transfer to skin tissue. The positively charged bioadhesive cationic liposomes were fabricated by incorporation of a chitosan derivative (a cationic polymer), heparin, and plasmid DNA into cationic liposomes, which were characterized to have a size of 200 nm, a zeta potential of 33.4 mV, a relatively stable DNA loading of 90.7%, a highly positive charge, and a loading capacity of plasmid DNA of 20.2 ng/ml. The positively charged bioadhesive cationic liposomes, which retained approximately 90% of the encapsulated DNA, had a higher transfection efficiency on skin tissue than negatively charged liposomes (92.5% vs. 57.3%, respectively). The positively charged bioadhesive cationic liposomes were also superior to other cationic liposomes in transfection efficiency on both the skin tissue and the HEK 293 cells. In vivo experiments using a cotton ball transdermal delivery system also demonstrated that positively charged bioadhesive cationic liposomes enhanced gene expression on skin tissue, and this bioadhesive
