A man was hospitalized early Monday with gunshot wounds to his leg and buttocks after he confronted two teens who he said were destroying property at an apartment complex in Northeast Portland. The man, who authorities later identified as 36-year-old Huey Loran, was standing outside his apartment in the 1700 block of Northeast Jasper Street at about 3:30 a.m. when the teens approached him, according to a police report. One of them pulled out a handgun, pointed it at Loran and fired it into the ground. He demanded the teens leave the area but they attacked him instead. Loran, armed only with a cane, sprayed them with pepper spray and tried to use that to thwart their attack. One teen fled after Loran sprayed him, but the second teen continued to punch Loran, the report said. Loran suffered stab and gunshot wounds as he retreated from the teens, according to the report. Real-estate records show the apartment is a second-story apartment and has been rented by the Portland police bureau since May 2018. -- Rachel Siegel 503-221-5515; @rachelzsiegelA spokesman for Trump-aligned activists said that the decision was made in accordance with the prayer rule, which provides that private prayer at public meetings be “persons of good character.” Or, as Cooper puts it, you know the drill: “I am not going to hold my tongue about this inane liberal decision. Can’t we all just play nice? ... For God’s sake — not prayer.” Cooper wasn’t the only one getting divine input — a California county official said the same thing on Friday, before he appeared

Sponsored Links Instructions "Dead Mans Draw" has a slow learning curve. Get comfortable with playing the card game before attempting the challenging puzzle game. Click the instructions above for a help file or see our support section for other options. Game "Dead Mans Draw" - How to Play

Players play against the computer or a friend by drawing as many cards as possible until the stack of cards falls to zero. Dead Man's Draw consists of two parts: the cards and the puzzle. The cards consist of letters that spell words; letters are arranged like a card game deck to fit in a ring. The puzzle is a combination of words that spell out a word which is repeated again and again. Each player has a sheet of paper on which the repeated word is indicated. The puzzle is set to provide the answers, and the player must reproduce the sequence of words to match the puzzle in order to reveal its location. The goal is to draw a word on the bottom of the stack of cards that corresponds to the word in the puzzle. On each turn, the player takes a turn as a word. Before each turn, the player sets a word to be drawn; once the word is drawn and placed on the stack, the rest of the draw order is determined. Each player may then take one or more turns, as desired. A turn consists of reading the drawn letters. From the set of drawn letters, a player must choose a word to be drawn. One letter is then drawn, and the remaining letters are read from the deck. The letters do not have to be read in order. They can be read back to front, shuffled, or drawn in any order. The player can choose to read all letters, or some letters. It is not necessary to read all the letters in order. The player can draw a word anywhere on the cards, not necessarily on the bottom. For example, if only three cards are left in the stack, the player can draw a word on the first card, or the second card. The objective is to draw the word that spells the repeated word on the bottom of the stack of cards and avoid drawing one that spells the word in the puzzle. Note: As soon as a word is drawn on the stack, the remaining letters are removed from the set; only the drawn letters remain in play. The goal is to draw a word on the stack of cards that corresponds to
