Boot Sequence in Windows 7.BCL6 promotes the chemosensitivity of prostate cancer PC3 cells to docetaxel through the regulation of PTEN and AKT1. The development of docetaxel-based chemotherapies has extended the survival time of patients with metastatic prostate cancer (PC), but it is not sufficient for all PC patients. The identification of key regulators of chemosensitivity might help us to improve the efficacy of docetaxel chemotherapy. In this study, we revealed that the expression of BCL6 was higher in the PC samples compared with the normal samples. The correlation analysis indicated that the expression of BCL6 was negatively correlated with the levels of AKT1 and PTEN in the PC samples, and it was positively correlated with the expression of P-AKT1 and P-PTEN in the PC3 cells. The results of Western blotting confirmed that there were similar results in the PC cells. To further investigate the role of BCL6 in PC cells, PC3 cells were knocked down with the BCL6 siRNA, and the results of the CCK-8 assay indicated that the knockdown of BCL6 reduced the viability of PC cells in a time- and dose-dependent manner, whereas the overexpression of BCL6 increased the viability of PC cells. The flow cytometry assay revealed that the knockdown of BCL6 increased the percentage of e79caf774b
