-api-type: winrt class --- # Windows.Management.Deployment.PnPRepresentation ##
-description Represents a package that can be installed on a remote computer or on a mobile device. ##
-remarks Package representations contain properties that control how and where an installation of a package can be deployed to a device. When you create a package, you can include property value pairs that control how the package can be installed on a remote computer or on a mobile device. You can change the properties of an existing package using IUpdatePackage. If you do not specify properties, package representations represent a mobile installation of the package. ##

-examples This example shows how to create a new package representation for an existing UpdatePackage with two properties. First, create a new Package object. `` `csharp Package newPackage = new Package() { FilePath = @"C:\Windows\Documents\WindowsAddons.exe", AutoAccept = true, Flags = PackageFlags.InstallOnRemotemachine | PackageFlags.InstallOnMobileDevice, }; `` Next, specify that the new package represents the package that can be installed on a mobile device. ``

Fifa 22 Features Key:

- FIFA 22 brings to life a new generation of players with its analysis powered controls that lead to a higher quality of decision making. What happens on the pitch? Motion data - real-time player movement and touch qualities - is used in-engine to great effect in all key on-pitch actions. For example, make sure players attack the ball first-time in dribbling, swerve a difficult tackle - or volley from 25 yards out accurately, or get the foot to the near post just as fast as you can pull the trigger.
- In Fifa 22, you have to make decisions as you acquire players, and as you develop them into effective footballers. You can see where players are at any given time, and make in-game adjustments using a new, game-changing control system.
- The engine now ensures every tiny detail of your team's lifestyle reflects your club's identity, style and values.
- The pre-match engine, stadium and training facility are now even more responsive and natural-feeling. You'll enjoy watching your superstar players impact your team more dynamically.
- The intelligent Player Impact Engine takes complex movements from the pitch and uses its motion data to make sure the ball path and interactions of players stay smooth.
- FIFA 22 also introduces a campaign that takes place in 2015 and follows the team that dominated in the 2014 World Cup: Brazil.
- Dynamically rendered crowd and players in new stadiums create a lifelike atmosphere on and off the pitch.
- The ability to set up your tactics and formations in any given situation dynamically has been improved, with the ability to have the classic 4-4-2 diamond or 3-5-2 on the fly. A new system allows you to build your midfield from the weakest parts of your squad to choose the right players to support the strikers.
- FIFA 22 is officially licensed by the English Football Association. You are now able to experience the magic of The Beautiful Game like never before.

- Expanded Scouting Reports.
- Precise training and
