"I am pleased to say that my visit to Sarawak yesterday has generated some new possibilities for the Penang Malays to be proud to be a part of the Nusantara. "We can never change our national identity simply by having a good relationship with the Sarawak Malays," she told pressmen yesterday at the State Assembly premises here. The 40-member Legislature Council was invited to visit the Istana Sarawak by Datuk Dr Sim Kui Hian, Chief Minister of Sarawak. Datin Seri said with the recent sensitisation programme the Government of Malaysia was now more alert and sensitive to issues of national identity. "I am proud of the things that have been done and yet to be done by the Government of Malaysia to preserve the rich Nusantara history, culture and language of Malaysia," she said. She continued: "What is more important is that we Malaysians should look at this Nusantara history and understand the value and the contribution of our Nusantara brothers and sisters to the development of our country. "Though the Menteri Besar of Sarawak, Datuk Patinggi Tuanku Muhammad Shamsuddin, has a long association with the Minangkabau community, I would like to commend him for the recent sensitivity that he has showed towards the Malaysian-born Minangkabau community. "I am now ready to open up doors for all of the Malaysian-born Minangkabau to be fully integrated into the Malaysian society and thus, be accepted by our Malaysian citizenship," she added. Datin Seri was confident that the State Government would work diligently to help Penang Malays and Nusantara Malays like herself to get more opportunities
