Disagreements on the type of employment contract are emerging in a number of countries where minority shareholders are increasingly expected to hold their rights in private hands and vote on issues directly affecting the business. As for Israeli technology transfer, according to the law passed last year, in countries where it has been recognized, every entrepreneur who begins his business must receive an authorisation from the ITA in order to be treated as an inventor. Identity theft Whenever an Israeli organisation accepts money from abroad, it must assume that the money can be stolen or otherwise wrongly used. The new law is intended to curb the kind of crimes that have been plaguing this country of eight million people, which has been suffering from high unemployment for the past three years. In 2008, there were 200,000 new jobs created, but a year later the figure was down to approximately 150,000. The new law is intended to curb the kind of crimes that have been plaguing this country of eight million people, which has been suffering from high unemployment for the past three years Another law being debated now seeks to extend the banks' liability for financial aid to less fortunate people, particularly those suffering from identity theft. The new law was discussed at a government committee meeting in Jerusalem on Monday. It requires banks to be responsible for any financial aid they issue to another person with the intention to gain financially or to damage the bank's reputation. This is in line with the recently adopted guidelines for the automated transfer of funds. The victims, however, will have no possibility of obtaining compensation from the bank. Even more urgent is the issue of legal redress for "human rights" cases. Israel will be the first country in the world to adopt the new anti-discrimination law, according to which any kind of discrimination is prohibited. The problem is the law's attempt to regulate on the basis of "human rights" issues, something that has been done for decades in European countries, and is being done now in other regions of the world. This approach is, in fact, extremely problematic because it does not recognize the equality of all parties involved.Q: IonCube loads itself in a frame and and Chrome does not validate my content I am
