Also, I'm looking to somehow get the variable - user - to return user1 in every instance where user_id is used (in other words, if user_id is = 2, then I'm looking for 'user1' to be returned in the list of returned users). This is what I have so far:
SELECT user_id,first_name,last_name,user_password,user_email,user_gender, user_avatar_link,LOWER(user_given_name) AS user_given_name,LOWER(user_family_name) AS user_family_name, user_location,user_birthday,user_t_birthday,user_orientation,user_role,photo FROM users
WHERE user_id = '$user' and in another file I have: bff6bb2d33
