Hello, after taking almost 2 years to finish something, I decided to post my game here. I have something kind of new, a shooter with lots of references, all from the 1980's and 1990's. I tried to make a super action shooter, with a lot of fluidity in the game. Shooting, obstacles and also doing a lot of acrobatics are fun! This game was designed for the fans of 90's classics like Super Killer Robot, Shinobi III, Romancing SaGa 4 and others. I play a lot of "retro" shooters, so I tried to make a game where I feel the atmosphere of a arcade shooter of the past. - Google Play Store - Facebook - Twitter - Also on Deviantart Welcome to the future, a nightmare that the world has predicted. Living with these two mortals is Chester, and it's up to Chester to get them both to acknowledge the truth, while they live with the fact that there's an old vampire out there in the middle of the woods nearby. Will Chester make it out alive? The last act in this tragicomic tale. You play Daphne, a young woman who escaped a fate worse than death! I tried using quoting=csv.QUOTE_NONPRINTING, but this just means "don't escape anything". A: Solution is: df = df.to_csv("test.csv", quotechar="\"", quoting=csv.QUOTE_NONPRINTING) This will let to .csv escape double quotes with \. I found a lot of discussion about this issue, but it was for older versions of pandas. A: To escape double quotes from the csv.QUOTE_NONPRINTING you need a backslash. Try this: df = pd.DataFrame(['John Doe', 'Cindy Franks'], ['2015-07-30', '2012-12-25'], ['=', '=']).columns=['person', 'date']) df.to_csv("people.csv", index=False, header=False, quotechar="\"", quoting=csv.QUOTE_NONPRINTING) Output: person,date John Doe,2015-07-30 Cindy Franks,2012-12-25 "" "" "" "" Another way is to set it up with the csv.DELIMITERS and DOUBLE_QUOTE_FIELD settings: df.to_csv("people.csv", index=False, header=False, delimiter="t", quoting=csv.DELIMITERS, doublequote=csv.DOUBLE_QUOTE_FIELD) Output: person,date John Doe,2015-07-30 Cindy Franks,2012-12-25 "" "" "" "" Q: How to move a row on click in jquery? Flinkenstein Gate was erected by the La Paz Local Neighborhood Civic Association and Universal Forest Products, Inc. in early 2005 and becomes the first functional, large scale nanomagnetic composite, as well as the first permanent stonewall building in the United States. Its rise to prominence, as well as the general perception that it was easy to build, prompted the formation of Nanomagnet Studio, which describes its design as, “a lintel gate made of nanomagnetic composite, which contains small magnets embedded in the concrete.” Design and construction Nanomagnet Studio’s mission to legitimize the usage of nanomagnetic construction material for such architectural structures culminated in the formation of the Flinkenstein Gate prototype. While it was not the first nanomagnetic composite laminate to be used in building structures, such as the NAC/AECO’s Sonfi Lintel series, the NAC/AECO’s use of plastic composite to magnetically bind their lintels was less permanent and more environmentally damaging that it was intended to be, particularly since the use of such compounds is, at the moment, a speculative choice, given the environmental concerns that have been raised about the current plastic composite manufacturing methodologies and the eventual side effects of potential by-products of additive and chemical structural composites. Everyone has their own color. Some people like blue, some people like purple. But what makes a person’s color so special? Are they soft like wax, or hard like coal? Well we’re about to find out. Our intro to this game is simple: you are a little orange ball. You turn into a button on the computer screen. Anyone can press your button, but you have to guess who is. In the beginning, press your button, and you may be able to guess who is pressing it, but as the game continues you’ll have a hard time determining whether they are a friend or foe. The more time you spend on each round the more experience points you earn, and eventually you could increase your color from orange to pink! It’s hard to stay calm when you’re staring down someone’s gun, so what’s the point of life if you don’t start it with your own weapon? Defeat all of your opponents, and you’ll have unlocked new cities on the map to explore. About This Game: Humanity first arrived on Earth over 200,000 years ago, and its growth and advancement would ultimately result in the development of human-computer interface technology, which lay dormant for thousands of years. More recently, computer programming and the creation of artificial intelligence sparked the growth of a new type of human, the “rich kid”, who used the money he has to buy objects that would help him in battle. After a long journey that spans across centuries, two opposing groups are currently at war against each other: the “flamingos”, a group of rich kids led by the mysterious “mother of flames”, and the “goo”, a group of kids who are trying to end the war by forming a new society. You, the froggy, have just met up with your friends the “gloop frogs” and have decided to help the fops and the goons. One of the cities on the map is in the hands of the goons and it’s up to you to prevent them from the takeover of that city! Game Features: - 2 cities to explore, and the more you play, the more of the cities you will unlock! - 3 kinds of weapons (guns, bugs and boomerangs) to attack your enemies with - Extensive customization options: you can change the color of your froggy
