The aim of this study is to investigate how protein corona formation on mesoporous silica nanoparticles (MSN) affects the cellular uptake and intracellular activity of MSNs. MSNs with designed surface charges and porosities were prepared. The cell uptake and intracellular activity of MSNs were studied in vitro, and the protein corona-depleted MSNs were used as control. The cellular uptake and intracellular activity of MSNs are affected

Make them happy and they will tell others. Many people feel like they're customer number 99. But I think we need to think of ourselves as the most important customer. If you think about who is buying your product, you are your most important customer. You're not always in a retail situation, but if you're in an employment situation, you're your most important customer and you never lose that. If you're in a bar or restaurant, you're your most important customer. There are customers who are after one thing and there are customers who are after many things. You can tell people you're looking for a teapot that will take milk and hot water and will brew a cup
