I do not think I've ever downloaded an RPG in my life, but I am downloading this game and absolutely loving it. I think this game is gonna be a hit! A lot of people are comparing it to Final Fantasy Tactics as it is a tactical RPG, but Final Fantasy Tactics was a much different game. But either way, I am amazed to see this game actually come out. Great job with that Codex, I can't wait to see what you post next! I just started this game in preparation for Final Fantasy, I love the graphics and the job system was so much easier then Final Fantasy. I loved Final Fantasy Tactics because I got to create jobs and switch from class to class, so much easier then Final Fantasy. I am loving this game so far and I cannot wait for more. I'm so excited to see this game. My brother was also excited about it and that made me excited. I've actually never played a tactical RPG before, but I just had a feeling like I was just gonna love this game. I started this game on the 7th (when the game was released) and I'm still going, so I guess that means I'll be playing for a while. I'll be sure to add more reviews once I can get my hands on a copy! ## What's new in Elden Ring:

The scenario of the Prequel

In the world called Midgard, at the corners of two countries—the Land of Light and the Land of Darkness, there is strife between large nations and self-styled evil empires, and many have begun to wage unholy wars. The ancestors of the brave lords of the “three nations” have fought on either side of the war for many years, and in the process have greatly weakened their abilities. The current ruling lords of the three nations—Lupes, Jihong, and Orgus—rule over their lands in alliance with each other.

Righteous Anger, in a Sense of Duty

The first son of Lupes is a young lord, Derek, who has been tasked with a series of quests for Lupes. Each time he completes a quest, Derek’s activities are reported to Orgus, who has been plotting to seize control of the three nations. Derek continues to work toward his goal, which is to align the three nations with each other and suppress the strife. Derek is of noble lineage, and as he progresses in his work, an ambition for greatness wells up inside of him.

Pulmonary alveolar microlithiasis: a new disease. Pulmonary alveolar microlithiasis (PAM) is a disease characterized by diffuse alveolar proteinosis with the formation of calcium phosphate microliths (calcium carbonate at low concentrations) in the distal lung alveoli. The disease is classified into three categories based on the clinical course: progressive with interstitial fibrosis, pneumatocele formation, and isolated with no clinical course. We report a case of PAM in a 50-year-old man. On the basis of the clinical course and laboratory findings, the diagnosis was made as isolated PAM. The other reported case showed similar clinical and radiological findings. We review other reported cases and the current theories on the etiology of PAM. Opinions of the United States Supreme Court 2001
