the metallicity is much lower than solar metallicity.   The reason for the low metal abundance could be a result of the combined effects of stellar winds, and the dust produced in these winds.

In this scenario, the most effective way to suppress the dust formation would be to have stars that are low-metallicity giants. Since we found that the highest mass stars were made of elements that are part of the range for τ Ceti ($[Fe/H] = -0.46$), further investigation is needed to understand the metal enrichment of τ Ceti. However, one of the effects of having a low metallicity is that the stars have a low opacity, which would allow their winds to develop much more quickly than higher metallicity stars.

Therefore, perhaps τ Ceti does not have a low metallic abundance due to a stellar evolution-influenced process. Further observations are needed to determine the metallicity and stellar evolution state of this star. Conclusions {#conc} =====

We present medium resolution spectra of a sample of 68 roAp stars that were obtained with the Phoenix spectrograph at Lowell Observatory. The spectra were used to determine stellar parameters, effective temperatures, surface gravities, projected rotational velocities, mean equatorial rotation velocities, lithium abundances, metallicities, and stratification coefficients for elements with τ Cet-like abundances. The average mass, radius, and luminosity of the stars are $\sim 1.5 M_{\odot}$, $\sim 12 R_{\odot}$, and $\sim 5 L_{\odot}$, respectively. We find that all of the stars in our sample have magnetic fields with strengths of $B \sin i = 5$ G, on average. These high magnetic fields confirm that they are low-mass, main-sequence Ap stars. While the rotational broadening of the stars in the sample is a small fraction of the average rotation period, the surface rotation is far from uniform. We find that β C 0cc13bf012 of isolated rib fractures].

Fractures of the thoracic and/or lumbar spine are serious lesions in trauma and management is based on a comprehensive and multidisciplinary approach.

Thus, the original clinical observation of an isolated rib fracture does not exclude the possibility of spinal or intrathoracic lesions. The aim of this study was to review the literature and to evaluate the treatment of isolated rib fractures in order to identify their place in the treatment of traumas.

Q: URL and Query parameters in local ASPX page? I created a very simple ASPX page with a dropdown, a textbox, a button (which has OnClick event), a button and a footer. I want to pass the text from textbox to my method but I don't have any idea how to do that. Here's the code-behind

protected void button_Click(object sender, EventArgs e) { TextBox textBox = (TextBox)divFooter.F indControl("textbox"); string s = textBox.Text; DropDownList

ddl = (DropDownList)divFooter.
FindControl("ddl"); ddl.SelectedValue = s; } Please help, Thanks. A: MVC has a information about Airbus A380? Where to find information about Airbus A380? I mean, I can just do a Google. But what about the technical part, the history, the politics, the design, etc.? A: The A380 wiki has a lot of good information. Also the Flightglobal A380 information page has a good history. The Wikipedia A380 page can be helpful if you're not interested in history, but the reference section can be helpful if you just want to know what happened on this day, or what a certain part did. If you're interested in recent history, you might want to check out the Airbus A380 Fan Site. It's more of a community site than a wiki, but it's worth a look. And yes, you can find a lot of information on the Internet, but not everyone is looking for just the same information. If you're not sure where to start, try searching for "A380 wiki".

Heterophilous microbial interactions in tropical soils. Dispersal between microbial species is most commonly considered to occur in a directional manner, i.e. if one species is available (and therefore grows faster) it will outcompete other species. However, other mechanisms have been suggested. Here we review the literature reporting evidence for inter-species competition in ecological
