The central network of M.R.S. (Multi-Real-Station) is a vast interconnected dataprocessing network serving more than 70 billion global citizens. As a user, you can freely "switch over" to the network to access convenient information and services like surveillance, weather, transport and emergency services. The system is built upon a sophisticated, powerful and safe, yet closed-source, digital operating system. Users are provided with a wide range of access rights. Computer users who share the same access levels can freely interact with one another. All data is held on the network and is fully available to all users. However, a disturbing and systematic hacker group known as "THE EYE" has systematically gained access to the network and recently declared a hostile takeover. Upon becoming aware of the threat, a group of special operatives known as "central keepers" has been assembled to take back the network, but with severe limitations on their access to the system. While THE EYE continues to wreak havoc and gain massive access to a vast collection of data, their movements are actively monitored by the central keepers to ensure that no one but the rightful owner of each part of the system escapes with any of the data and information. By splitting THE EYE, the central keepers can access only what they need. However, the number of THE EYE members have not been stable, and their actions are increasingly unpredictable. It is up to you. Refrain is a cyberpunk action game inspired by the origin of the gaming industry. A decade before the commercial explosion of popular computer games, the Japanese were pioneering the business of selling software and hardware for arcade games. In their early days, they marketed the products like sports cars and the famous Sony PICAPA was launched, the first ever video game arcade console. Refrain plays on this unique gaming history, a chance to be a part of this moment in time. We are excited to bring you a new style of game design like no other! Game "Crossout — Triad: The Patron" Description: A paradise for tourists and a prison for criminals: Provocation is not the only reason for tourists to visit Shanghai. For criminals, conditions there are even more pleasing. The city is divided into different districts, a fact that is exploited by drug-trafficking gangs. Local authorities seek to stop their actions, but they have no intention of giving up their weapons. Criminal gangs have learned to hide and not to leave behind a single trace, so the authorities have no idea where to even look.Crossout presents the player with an interesting simulation of a downtown crime. The player becomes a witness to events and tries to survive. The story consists of many characters: from ordinary citizens, who pay no attention to what's going on around them, to powerful businessmen, who use corruption as a weapon. At the beginning of the game, the player is presented with tasks and missions on the territory of the crime clan. To complete them, an undercover agent of the police will help you. In each of the plots, the player has two options: to act bravely and try to protect the witness, or to run away from the situation and try to survive alone. International Team One of the major issues of the British team was a lack of suitable pilot, and there were plenty of who were willing to take their place. However, the British selection committee ruled that, as there were so many at the moment that they needed to spend the budget on one of them, they had to pick the strongest. A strong and deserving candidate arose in the form of Pavel Berkoukivski. Although his nation was not initially a natural choice, the Baikals were turning into one of the best, and Pavel had his nation beat any others' in the Pan-Asian. Pavel led his team from the early stages of the tournament. In his first win, he secured a decent late 3-game victory over the Americans in Europe 2, but their loss to Pakistan 1 handed it to him. In Europe 2, he made a deep run out the back and was becoming quite popular with the community, despite being demoted in the rankings, to face the top two nations in their own groups.

He faced off against Canada 2, and came second to a very close 7th-8th score. There are two reasons why Pavel had trouble finishing in the top places. The first is that very high chance of being demoted by the end of the year placed Pavel's nation on the short list of nations that should have/have been relegated. Pavel was set to start the finals of Europe 2 sitting at a minus two, but it was only after Canada 1 dominated the first half of their match, and Canada 2 slowly put up a decent defence, that Pavel's nation was demoted to a minus one status. This was

Prepare yourself to die, again and again! This game is an action game with a time limit. In order to escape, you must time your deaths to overtake a level. There is a time limit before the level ends, and you must die in that time. -Each death you make decreases the time you have on the level by 2 seconds. -If you die before the time has ended, you will be sent back to the previous level. If you die after the time has ended, you will be given 1 Death Metal. -You can use this Death Metal for the next round of matches. How to Play: Select "Single Player" from the main menu to enter the game mode. Select "Deathmatch" to play Death Match (versus). Select "VS (Versus)" to play "Death Duel". Select "Survival" to play Death Match (plus). Select "Survival" to play "Death Survival". Select "Time Trial" to play Time Trial. Select "Challenge" to play Time Trial. Play with the same "Play Style" as you did in the Main Menu. (Note: Select "Inverted" as the play style when playing in multi-player.) We recommend following the notes in the "Multiplayer Tips" section when playing. Fight in fights with a variety of Death Metal weapons, including swords, guns, and even chainsaws and machine guns! Choose from a variety of Death Metal for Death Match. You can also use the items you have obtained in the game to improve your Death Metal. If you die during a "Death Duel", you will be given a Premium Death Metal. The more you defeat in Death Match, the more Premium Death Metal you will earn! Experience your life in the world of Premium Hell! There are items to buy in various locations! Items can be bought with Death Metal. Not all Death Metal items can be obtained. Most items will be obtained by defeating enemies. Select an item you want to buy from the character selection screen. In-game Shop You can use in-game money to buy items in the shop. You cannot directly buy death metal from the shop, but you can buy another item with it. The Character Selection Screen Use the character selection screen to use any items you have obtained in the game. Select "Exit" from the bottom of the character selection screen to
