How to Download MOGA Thunderbolt Customer Support Manual MOGA Thunderbolt -Q: Can I use an array to assign a variable and retrieve the value of the corresponding key? Is it possible to use an array to map key to the value? Such as a = { b: 2, c: 3 } And then, using a variable as an index, I can retrieve this values: var i = 2 a[i] // get value of 2 Or is this not allowed in Javascript? A: As @Andrew stated above, using an array is the best and most simple way to solve this. However, you can create a associative array with the following syntax: var i = 2; var a = {}; a[i] = 2; Then, you can retrieve values using a simple bracket notation: a[1] // 2 If you're looking to create a new object with the key and value, then you could use new: var i = 2; var a = new Object(); a[i] = 2; // Alternatively, the object literal notation could be written as: var i = 2; var a = {}; a[i] = 2; Q: Sugestão de implementação de B2C Qual sugestão de implementação de B2C com propriedades do Azure?
