in the statement, the white house deputy press secretary jamie smith said, "the administration opposes gender discrimination in all forms, but the end result of this legislation would be to subject doctors to criminal prosecution if they fail to determine the motivations behind a very personal and private decision. the government should not intrude in medical decisions or private family matters in this way." you do have the right to record video inside your home without telling anyone, butwell, there are two big buts. the first: you cant record video in any location where a person would expect to have a high degree of privacy. those places should be pretty obvious, as noted earlierbedrooms and bathrooms are clear examples, as is a changing room if you have a pool. but what if a guest is sleeping on your sofa, and likely using that room to dress the author of this fusion article describes that very situation: a person sleeping on a friends sofa for a few weeks discovered that she was being recorded by a dropcam (the precursor to the nest cam). the situation is murky, because although it was a living roomthe most public room in a homeit served as a de facto bedroom for the time the guest was using it. what makes this case even murkier is the technology involved. according to the plea agreement, the file sharing program used by sluss contains a chat feature that allows the user to communicate with others who use the program either through private or public chats. as in any case, homeowners must be aware of their rights and responsibilities when it comes to filming and photographing others. when using any type of surveillance camera on a private property, it is a good idea to secure the cable that connects the camera to a power source. this is important to prevent the camera from being tampered with or disabled.

according to the plea agreement, the file sharing program used by sluss contains a chat feature that allows the user to communicate with others who use the program either through private or public chats. a review of sluss computer revealed numerous private and public chats from sluss using the file sharing program, in which he encourages the production, transportation, and distribution of child pornography. specifically, sluss encouraged his friends to make videos of boys engaged in sexually explicit activity by webcam, and share those videos with sluss. a surveillance camera or other recording device is likely to be legal in the privacy of your own home, if you want it to be. but taking that recording device into places where it is unlikely to be caught on camera, or not recorded at all - like a bank - is a serious violation of the law. that's why you should be careful not to take your surveillance cameras and other recording devices inside your bank. in addition to enforcing title vii, which prohibits employment discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex or national origin, eec enforces the age discrimination in employment act; the equal pay act; title i of the americans with disabilities act, which prohibits employment discrimination against people with disabilities in the private sector and state and local governments; prohibitions against discrimination affecting individuals with disabilities in the federal government; and sections of the civil rights act of 1991. further information about the commission is available on the agency's web site at 5ec8ef588b
