CSiXCAD, a CSI developed plug-in for AutoCAD and BricsCAD, streamlines drawing production by directly interacting with ETABS and SAP2000. CSiXCAD provides a live link between structural models defined and maintained in ETABS or SAP2000 and the drawings documenting them in the CAD software. CSiXCAD generates a full 3-D model and automatically generates an initial set of drawings that can then be refined within the CAD software. CSI products are designed to be easily integrated with other software. SAP2000 and ETABS are designed with what is called an Open Application Programming Interface, or OAPI. This means that programmers who develop other products can write a program that will allow them to work with ETABS and SAP2000 from their product. A program that integrates with other software is called a SAP2000 OAPI. This product is called CSiXCAD, a CSI product that has SAP2000 and ETABS OAPI capabilities. CSiXCAD will be distributed with every licensed copy of SAP2000 and ETABS to make it easy for you to use CSiXCAD and other third-party products. However, there are no technical support services for third-party products integrated with SAP2000 or ETABS products. The market division SANBURG is integrated with several types of products in SAP2000 and ETABS . SANBURG provides various services such as market segmentation, forecast validation and model development. SANBURG is a database management system for market analysis. Using SAP2000's native analysis tools, you can perform rich analysis of electronic product data and traceability information. This is the equivalent of more traditional analysis using spreadsheets, and comes at no cost. You can examine multiple data sources at once or drill down into single data elements.
