Here are some of the major improvements you can expect to see with Photoshop:

- GPU-powered: Being able to incorporate exciting new artistic features such as 3D text, 3D masks and all-new 3D brushes without worrying about rendering to texture, on-the-fly previews, rendering performance and threading in tandem with the GPU.
- Interactive: Being able to manipulate your images and videos in fascinating new ways, in real-time, without the need for expensive software or plugins.
- Easy: An expanded library of powerful features that enhance your artistic abilities in an amazing way, all backed by a suite of tools to get you more creative.
- Cohesive: The way that the combined tools work is more consistent with Photoshop, and less separated. A more holistic workflow, and less the legacy Adobe After Effects.

Additional changes we will see in Photoshop:

- Global perspective: No more weird N number of canvases, scenes, perspectives or rulers. Find it near the clock, or in the bottom bar, with one global setting
- Brush size: Canvas, layer or pixels will always have the same brush size. Makes the UI more convenient, and makes it faster to work.
- Magic wand: Works in 2D and 3D. Select pixels and hit magic wand. You're done!
- Grow and shrink: One keystroke to make changes to document size. Works with text, brushes, and more.
- Light leaks: Untangles most problems with light leaking into other parts of the scene. A one-time hassle is now a thing of the past.
- Layered strokes and brushes: Sub-tips all in one place, or blending fades, curves, and boxes, and all in a single place.
- New shape layers: More powerful shape layers than ever before, combined with a new UI for shape layers. Create shapes of any size in any location, then easily manipulate them with masks and edits. Plus, shape layers can now contain other layers. (Capo)
- New layer style/ masks: Layer styles and masks come together in new ways. Enjoy a wide array of new interface and method improvements, and an even wider set of powerful editing tools.
