I have so far been successful in implementing the method, but it appears to have a bug. Here is the code: public static void r(ListNode l) { ListNode r=l; while(l!=null) { l=l.next; r=r.prev; } r.next=null; } The bug is that the r.prev is not the last item in the list. It can only find it when the list has only one item. And the counter int i that is incremented to keep track of the current node is also not accurate. A: ListNode r
