You can do this by clicking on the “Sort” tab and then by clicking on another tab, “Events” you can organize them by date, location, exposure and more. From there you can go to the “Image” Tab then select the type of metadata you want to attach to your images. From there you can find out the other information we’ve talked about first. Image Views: Now you should have a central catalog to organize your images based on shooting conditions, image type, and people in your photo.
