To study and evaluate the feasibility, curative and survival effectiveness of operative management in patients with stage I-II malignant melanoma. A series of 614 cases with clinical stage I or II malignant melanoma were analyzed retrospectively. All were managed by surgical removal of the primary tumor with or without lymph node dissection. The surgical management was performed in conjunction with sentinel lymph node biopsy and/or completion lymph node dissection. The sensitivity of sentinel lymph node biopsy was 100%, and the positive rate of completion lymph node dissection was 76.2%. The overall recurrence rate was 12.7%, and the local recurrence rate was 10.2%, the distant metastasis rate was 3.8%, and the lymph nodal recurrence rate was 3.1%. The overall and disease-free survival rates at 5 years were 87.3% and 76.3%, respectively. A multivariate analysis showed that the operative extent of stage I melanoma was not associated with local recurrence, distant metastasis, and disease-free survival rate. Poorly differentiated and stage III melanoma were associated with worse local recurrence rate, distant metastasis rate, and disease-free survival rate. Surgical intervention can achieve a satisfactory result in the treatment of patients with stage I malignant melanoma. However, this should be modified in the management of stage III patients, considering the different prognosis of these 2 types of patients.Q:

chrome.webRequest.onBeforeSendHeaders not firing at all in chrome if not call origin on fiddler I'm testing a chrome app using the dev mode of a extension, which is forced to add some request headers. To be sure that the headers are sent with every request I've added:

document.addEventListener('DOMContentLoaded', function() { document.querySelector('.something').addEventListener('click', sendWebRequest, false); }, false); function sendWeb
